

University of Lowell
One University Avenue
Lowell, Massachusetts 01854

(617) 454-7811

PUBLIC RELATIONS

FALL RIVER MAN PERFORMS WITH MONTREAL SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA

Lowell, MA. -- Professor Donald Bravo, faculty member in the College of Music at the University of Lowell, and a Fall River native, plays principal bassoon with the Montreal Symphony Orchestra in a performance of Stravinsky's "Le Sacre du Printemps" on the Canadian National Broadcasting Network this month. The performance will also be the subject of a major recording.

Bravo, now a resident of Framingham, is a graduate of the Boston Conservatory and the New England Conservatory, and studied in the graduate schools of Boston University and the University of Michigan.

Over the past five seasons he has been invited to play with the Detroit Symphony, the Buffalo Symphony, and the New York Philharmonic. He has performed throughout the country and has recorded for Deutsche Grammaphone and the Musical Heritage Society.

#

PM/ Sp - 1/12/79